I MUST SAY!

Welcoming Carole Migden

Editor,

We would like to give a public thanks to all those who contributed their time, money, and effort to give Carole Migden, this country's highest elected lesbian/gay official, a fabulous Sacramento welcome at her recent successful fundraiser.

Carole, serves on the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, chairs its powerful Budget Committee and S.F.'s Central Democratic Committee to the California Democratic party. We hear she has aspirations for higher office. Her fundraiser served as a Sacramento introduction to a dynamic, intelligent and charismatic rising star!

A special thanks goes to Dr. Sid Crain and John Daniels who lent their wonderful home, Terry Sidie for contributing drinks, Doug Ford, Nancy Lange and Karl Greene, for special services in the beverage and hors d'oeuvres area and Michael Calbruno for his amazing sense of direction. Many others assisted, but we don't have room to list them all.

Sincerely,

The Planning Committee:
Eileen Gillis, Michael Boyd,
Rosanna Herber, Robert Oakes

John Laird for Assembly

Editor,

As we all know, a wave of witch-hunts and violent hate campaigns are being launched all over the U.S. by the religious right against us gays and lesbians. Such hate is unprecedented since the 1930's Nazi Germany and the 1950's McCarthy era.

This is why we must all contact our local, state, and national politicians and urge them to oppose gay-bashing and to support equal rights for the nation's 25 million gays and lesbians. Our very existence is at stake! We must also get our butts to the polls and vote for candidates who are either gay or lesbian or who are friends of gays and lesbians.

One such candidate for the 27th Assembly District, comprising Santa Cruz, Monterey, Big Sur, etc., is John Laird, the former mayor of Santa Cruz. He is the first openly gay person to run for the California State Assembly. Mr. Laird has held numerous political offices and is very politically savvy.

If you live in the 27th Assembly District, please register and vote for John Laird. As of this writing, the date of the election has not been set, but it will be in September or October, 1993. Also, if you have friends and relatives in the 27th Assembly District, please urge them to register and vote for John Laird. For more information, contact: Friends of John Laird, 1214 King St., Santa Cruz, Ca. 95060. Phone: (408) 426-5900.

Custody Battle In Nebraska

Editor,

We are humbly writing this letter with hope that our community will be willing to reach out and help us in our time of need.

We are a committed lesbian couple fighting a legal battle in the state of Nebraska, a state in which no legal precedents have been set for gay and lesbian parents. We are seeking full custody of my six-year-old son.

My son has alleged sexual, physical, and emotional abuse and neglect by his father. My son's father is seeking full custody on the sole basis that I am a lesbian in a lesbian relationship.

We have spent thousands of dollars to provide medical care and counseling for my son, in reference to the alleged abuse/neglect. We have also had to hire an attorney to represent us and a guardian ad item to represent my son. We have had to travel to Nebraska to fight for my son's safety. We must continue his counseling and have a Home Study completed this summer.

Please help us obtain the help and resources we need to bring my son to a safe, loving home, and to help other gay and lesbian parents through legal precedent.

Sincerely,
Devrin L. Wimberly

Thanks From SLA

Editor,

Thank you for the acknowledgement of the Sacramento Leather Association's recent donations to four local charitable groups. We hope to support and call attention to such organizations for their dedication to our community.

We also must give credit where credit is due on a recent event. Although the members of the S.L.A. were enthusiastic participants in the "Black Party II" held at the Wreck Room on May 8th, credit for sponsoring and organizing the event goes to Mr. Northern California Leather, Wes Patterson. The event was not, as implied, an S.L.A. function.

Thanks again for the latest ISSUE's continuing coverage of the events of the diverse Sacramento leather community. Your support is deeply appreciated.
Yours in Leather,
Martin D. Casey
Corresponding Secretary

Remembering GLACR Founder

Editor,

I learned of the death of Everett Denman in the Mid-May edition of Sacramento's the latest ISSUE newspaper. I had the special privilege of meeting him briefly on one occasion. He was a powerful gay rights and AIDS activist. I always admired his courage and strength.

During the final year of his life, he founded and worked with a group called "Gay and Lesbian Advocates for Children's Rights" (GLACR). He sought to keep the pedophile group "NAMBLA" (North American Man-Boy Love Association) out of the San Francisco Gay Parade. He must have been deeply disappointed when he heard that they would be allowed to march once again. We all know that NAMBLA isn't about 17-year-olds being able to date adults; their motto after all is "Sex after eight is too late."

Would the lesbian community ever allow a group of men that molest little girls to march with us? Would any of us welcome them?

What good does it do to deny accusations of pedophilia when heterosexual America keeps hearing about child molesters supposedly being part of the "diversity" of our community? And isn't it reasonable to assume, as unfair as it might be, that male victims of child rape, and that's what it is, just might grow up to be a little homophobic.

It would be a fitting tribute to Everett Denman if gays, lesbians and bisexuals, who believe that pedophiles don't belong in a parade that celebrates the rights of "consenting adults" to love one another, would join GLACR. If Christian bigots can unfairly exploit the videotaped actions and attire of drag queens and

Rights Laws Overturned Fight Continues

by Stacy Selmants

Despite predictions that a recent state Supreme Court action has "nailed the coffin" on the state's municipal fair employment ordinances, gay rights advocates say the fight is far from being over.

In a recent ruling, the state Supreme Court refused to review an appeal of the Delaney v. Superior Fast Freight job discrimination case, where a Los Angeles appeals court would not allow the fired employee to sue under LA's fair housing ordinance. The case — where a gay man tested the limits of a local fair employment ordinance — effectively showed that such ordinances offered no protection, since the appeals court said that the existing provisions of state law would supersede any local ordinances. State law under the Fair Housing and Employment Act does not specifically protect gays and lesbians.

One of the confusing aspects, for the average gay/lesbian worried about job protection, is the assumption that the success of last year's gay rights bill, Assembly Bill 2601, ended this battle. While AB 2601 was an important victory, it did not amend the state's Fair Employment/Housing statutes, but instead changed the state Labor Code, and allowed gays and lesbians to go through an administrative process or use the Labor Code to sue in court.

According to Rand Martin, Chief Consultant to Assemblymember Terry Friedman (D-Los Angeles) who authored AB 2601, "The decision makes 2601 all the more important. Because despite the doomsday predictions, 2601 is the only statutory protection we have."

Martin explained that the question of the "pre-emptive" language in the state Fair Employment/Housing laws nullifying local anti-discrimination ordinances has always been a concern. He noted that Willie Brown's (D-San Francisco) AB 2291 would eliminate that conflicting language, which would again validate all 18 existing city fair housing and employment ordinances. (Brown's bill has successfully passed through the Assembly and is waiting to be heard in the Senate Judiciary Committee.)

Laurie McBride, the Executive Director of the LIFE Lobby, who sponsored AB 2601, explained another aspect of the case. According to McBride, because the decision came in a district court in Los Angeles, it is possible to have another district court hear a similar case, in a different district, and have both conflicting decisions remain in the law. "People then could use either decision as a basis for their cases. The Supreme Court's decision not to hear the appeal actually helped us."

McBride also noted that there is a similar case waiting to be filed in San Francisco's district court, using San Francisco's local non-discrimination ordinance as a basis for a lawsuit, which will then wind its way through the court process, and may set another precedent for gays and lesbians seeking protection from job and housing discrimination.

In response to the question, are the local anti-discrimination ordinances still in effect, McBride replied, "They're out, for now. And it's a very confusing issue. But we think they'll be back."

Davis to Vote on Domestic Partners

by Eric McIntyre

By early July, the Davis Human Relations Commission hopes to receive approval of its proposed Domestic Partnership Ordinance, which would grant certain rights to those in a gay, lesbian, or unmarried relationship.

By approving this ordinance, which is quite similar to the one in Sacramento, City Council will allow three important rights to be realized.

Through domestic partnership, individuals will be recognized as a "family" when leasing, or renting, and in any type of contracting of real estate in the City of Davis.

Rather than being treated as two roommates earning two separate incomes, the domestic partners will be treated as a family unit.

In addition, the ordinance would permit family care leave in order to care for a sick partner. Any employer who grants unpaid employee leave for the care of a sick spouse must allow the same privilege to an employee involved in a domestic partnership.

"Under this ordinance, domestic partners will have the legal protection to this right," asserted Elvia Garcia-Ayala, Community Relations Manager of Davis and liaison to the Human Relations Commission.

Garcia-Ayala also discussed the third right of this ordinance which is the right to medical visitation.

This would require that medical care facilities acknowledge domestic partners as members of the families. Under this term, the patient will be allowed to designate visitation rights to whom he/she desires.

This would eliminate any conflict of legal visitation rights between the medical care facility and the partner, which has often occurred in the past, Garcia-Ayala said.

Obtaining domestic partnership documentation will be continued on page 18

Choice for Assembly Seat is Clear

by Stacy Selmants

The runoff election on July 27 for the late B.T. Collins' Assembly seat will pit fundamentalist activist Barbara Alby against moderate Democrat Joan Barry, and the results may have a negative impact upon any future "gay friendly" legislation at the Capitol.

Alby, a two-time loser for the seat, received 23 percent of the vote on May 25, beating out over a dozen other challengers, in an admittedly small, special election turnout. Besides the two major party candidates, Libertarian Dave Walker and Independent Ronald Curry will also be on the ballot.

The seat is temporarily vacant due to the unexpected death of B.T. Collins, who was handpicked to run against Alby in 1990 by Governor Wilson, in an effort to continued on page 18

El Dorado Task Force Meeting

The 1993 Annual Meeting of the Annual El Dorado AIDS Task Force is scheduled for Tuesday, June 29 at 6 p.m.

Required by Task Force by-laws, the annual meeting features the election of a new board of directors and introduction of the draft annual report. As this is the first annual meeting to be held at the new office of the Task Force (located at 451 Main Street, #9 in downtown Placerville), a pot-luck dinner will be held after the brief business meeting and elections.

For more information (and potluck coordination) contact Eileen Crim, president of the Task Force, at 626-4882 or Kevin Wadsworth at 676-5532.

Two Years of Lavender Pride

After two years of serving the gay and lesbian community, the rally cry of the Lavender Angels, "Walk With Pride," can still be heard as they patrol the streets of Sacramento in an effort to prevent bias-motivated violence and hate crimes.

Their formation was triggered by a series of gay bashings focused in the "Lavender Heights" section of midtown Sacramento. The attacks culminated in the brutal murder of Vincent Blades, a twenty-four year old gay man who was stabbed to death in Lavender Heights.

Since their first patrol in 1989, the Lavender Angels have reported no direct physical confrontations, only minor incidents.

The watch group is non-confrontational and promotes safety through visibility and awareness of presence. Lavender Angels serve as the "eyes and ears" of the Sacramento Police Department, which promotes quick response to all calls made by a Lavender Angel patrol.

Members of the Lavender Angels volunteer their time to patrol gay/lesbian events and clubs, attend monthly organizational meetings and engage in regular training sessions.

New members are taught patrol procedure and self-defense techniques by Midge Marino, 2nd degree Judo black belt and self-defense instructor, before their patrol. The executive committee, Sandy Thomas, Stephanie and Cheryle, organizes fundraising, scheduling and public relations activities for the Angels.

As violence against the gay and lesbian community escalates, the value of a gay and lesbian neighborhood watch is readily apparent. Although each member has a personal reason for joining the Lavender Angels, members remain active because the group instills a sense of unity, strength and pride.

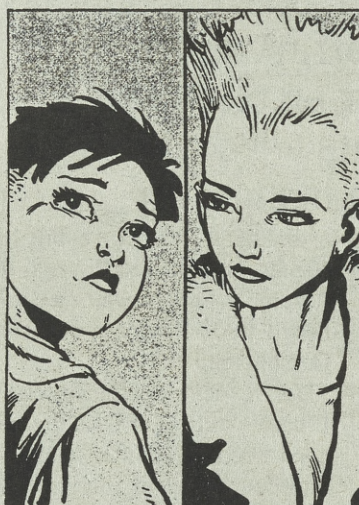

Recruiting new members is always a top priority to maintain the efficacy of the Lavender Angels. Look for their self-defense demonstration on the main stage at the Lambda Freedom Fair on June 19, or stop by their booth to express your support of or interest in joining the Lavender Angels gay/lesbian neighborhood watch. For additional information call 452-1205.

Meet the Press, RCDC Style

The River City Democratic Club will be hosting representatives from Sacramento's print and broadcast news organizations at its June 21 meeting. Dubbed "Our Chance to ask Them," the meeting offers the lesbian, gay and bisexual community a chance to pose questions to the media regarding their presentation of stories relating to our lives.

RCDC's meeting will be held at the YWCA at 17th and L Streets at 6:30 p.m., and is open to anyone interested in attending.

Sandman Artist Beyond the Pale

Artist Colleen Doran of the "Sandman" comic book series will be at Beyond the Pale, 2029 J Street for a signing of the new hardcover release of "A Game of You," June 28 from 5 - 8 p.m.

The "Sandman - Game of You" book is a trip through another world, with a bizarre array of creatively illustrated characters. (Several who are lesbian or transgender.)

In addition to Colleen Doran, the book signing will also feature writer for DC Comics "Catwoman," Jo Duffy.

Chorus Presents Pride Concert

The Sacramento Men's Chorus presents "Pride and Diversity" on Friday June 18 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Francis Church, 26th and K Streets in Sacramento.

The evening of music will be separated into three parts. The first, "Diversity," will include individual performances by Open Road, Sacramento Women's Chorus and Entourage. Part two will be "The Perspective of Memory," and the final section is "Unity."

Tickets are $7 and can be purchased at the Gifted Gardener, 2122 J Street or at the door. For more information call 444-5213.

David Mixner: Insider on the Outside

by Michael R. Gorman

He's a FOB. A "Friend Of Bill." In fact, he has a twenty-four year head start on many of the FOB's who populate the nation's capital these days.

David Mixner met Bill Clinton in 1969 at a retreat on Martha's Vineyard which was a reunion of workers from the campaigns of Senator Eugene McCarthy and Robert Kennedy. Both of the men being from poor, small town, rural backgrounds, became immediate and fast friends.

In 1977, while working on California's "No On 6" campaign (against the Briggs initiative which would have forbidden gays and lesbians to teach in the public schools), David Mixner called his old friend Bill Clinton and came out to him.

"I received nothing but support from them (Bill and Hillary), and a great deal of sympathy and compassion," Mixner told the latest ISSUE in an exclusive interview prior to his keynote address at Sacramento's annual California Capital Political Action Committee (CAPPAC) fund-raising dinner.

Mixner is perhaps best known for his status as an openly gay friend of the President of the United States, but his involvement in politics began long before his present celebrity. In addition to being Senior Campaign Advisor for the national Clinton For President campaign and an organizer of No On 6, he has held major positions in the campaigns of Hart, Gephardt, McGovern, and Jerry Brown.

He worked to prevent the passage of measure 64 which sought quarantine for people with AIDS. As a young man he worked on the campaigns of Robert Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy.

He has been instrumental in the search for gay and lesbian appointees to the Clinton Administration, as well as a prominent spokesperson for the Campaign For Military Service which seeks to end the Pentagon's discriminatory policies toward gays and lesbians.

He is the president of DBM Associates in West Hollywood, a strategic planning and consulting firm. Here are some highlights from the interview:

LI: How is your relationship with the Clintons now?

DM: Well, it's a little strained because I've taken a very hard line on the policies of this administration and my expectations and the community's expectations. About March, I had a major disagreement on the policy of segregation [of gays and lesbians in the post-ban military]. I went on Nightline and gave a major speech in Dallas that got a lot of press attention, and it caused a strain, as it would in a family between brothers.

LI: Are things still strained?

DM: Yes, of course they're strained. I worked very hard to line up this community to support the president and Mrs. Clinton, and we've had enormous progress on some fronts and very distressing slowness on others. I feel a moral responsibility to this community, being in the position I am in to not use it to have tea at the White House, but to bring that before in our history. Probably in the end we will have 20-25 major appointments throughout the administration, Roberta Achtenberg being the most visible and the most powerful. Bob Hattoy in the White House is another one who is quite prominent and known to the community. A lot of people who are not known to the community who are openly gay and openly lesbian are serving in government for the first time in our lives.

LI: And the area where we've speed.

LI: Do you think that President Clinton is still committed to a Manhattan Project-like effort?

DM: I don't think there's any question about it. That's where it is my job to put pressure on. It's my job to articulate the urgency and the need and that they're not moving fast enough. It is very tough for Roberta or Bob who are inside the administration to put that kind of pressure on. It's the main reason that I did not go into the administration, so that I could play this role on the outside and keep their feet to the fire, make them uncomfortable at times.

LI: What do you think will happen with the executive order to end the military ban on gay and lesbian soldiers?

DM: I've been very harsh and very strong on this executive order. I don't know how it's going to come down. It has not been an easy time, but with the Campaign For Military Service and all of the national groups in coalition, I think we have made great progress. We have gone from 18 to about 45 senators now on our side. We only need 50. The momentum is on our side.

Brian Astory

"We only need to walk one line, our agenda, and our agenda is two simple things: a cure and freedom. No more. No less."

progress and advancement for this community.

LI: Have you spoken to the president since March?

DM: I never repeat the conversations that the president and I have so that I can continue to have them. But I talk to the White House at least once a week.

LI: Tell me about the progress in this administration.

DM: On the appointment front we have done extremely well. We have 5 or 6 people working in the White House who are openly gay or lesbian. We've never had had little progress?

DM: As far as I am concerned, we have had extraordinarily painful and slow progress on the AIDS front. I think we are long overdue for an AIDS Czar. I think we need to get this Manhattan Project under way. [During the campaign, Clinton promised a government backed intensive scientific research project toward a cure modelled after the Manhattan Project which developed the atomic bomb during WWII.] I am distressed that we are not moving at a more rapid

LI: What is your perception of Clinton's view of the current compromises being proposed, particularly Barney Frank's?

DM: He's been pretty careful not to take a position on any particular compromise. There are about 12 now floating around Washington. What we've done in the Campaign For Military Service and the other national organizations is set some very basic threshold principles that must be met, that we will evaluate all proposals against: What we do off base must be nobody's business at any level, and on base we must be able to acknowledge that we are gay in a healthy, positive way that gives us dignity in the workplace. I doubt very much that any rule that we get that will receive approval of the United States Senate will include the right to dance or housing or benefits. It's not parity. It's not equality, but those are things that our vets have very clearly indicated to us they are willing to compromise in order to be open in the workplace and serve with dignity and honesty as open gay and lesbian people.

LI: The Pentagon commissioned a study from the Rand Corporation, and the results came out yesterday. That study has recommended full integration of gays and lesbians into the military and an end to the restriction on consensual sodomy. How do you think this will effect the debate?

DM: I think that's going to have an effect on the decision in the end is politics. I think that the best thing politically for this administration to do, and I believe this passionately as a man of some political experience, is to be courageous, to be tough and decisive.

LI: Do you feel that the flap over the president's withdrawal of the nomination of Lani Guinier to head the Civil Rights Division at the Justice Department will push him to be tough on the gay issue to avoid the label of indecisiveness?

DM: It could work either way. I can see people say, "Look you have to stand for something. You have to fight over something. If you back off of this issue, you're dead." On the other hand, there's a movement in the White House among some people to be very conservative, centrist, middle of the road. "Let's just get all of this out of the way and it will go away." But they don't understand; we're not going back. I have in very clear terms said that I would find it very difficult to imagine where the President of the United States could speak in this country if he backs away on this issue. They must understand that we, as a community, have passionately committed ourselves to the lifting of this ban. It will be a tough journey and many of us will pay very heavy prices, but we are not afraid. After you bury 190 of your friends, you have nothing more to lose.

A word of caution, the political right wants to discredit us and the quickest way is to say "gays want special privileges." I urge you to challenge this statement immediately.

Gross generalizations that we flaunt ourselves and will try to recruit them are popular also. It is extremely important that we realize a lesson from the Holocaust. Precursor to the persecution was the Jewish tradition of being "God's chosen people, as well as dressing, and acting differently." Societies have never treated people who are perceived different with love, as soon as difference is established persecution will begin.

Remember, we are just the same, we want the same rights as everyone in America, we want equal protection under the law. The goal is no discrimination based upon sexual orientation. Sincerely, R.R.N.

More Important Issues

Editor,

Folks who have issues with being labeled "queer" are entitled to their opinions, but to me and my partner, Jackie, there are issues to be more concerned about:

- 1.) Coming out -- Coming out fully means freedom!
- 2.) Be visible -- Don't be afraid to talk candidly to agencies.

Is Barney a Dinosaur?

Editor,

Despite the fact that Barney Frank has a commendable record as a congressman, he has capitulated lated totally to the opposition of "lifting the ban on homosexuals in the military."

Negotiation and compromise are said to be inevitable in politics but capitulation as demonstrated by Barney constitutes betrayal. Barney has betrayed not only gay youths but heterosexual youths as well. Homosexual youths deprived of their true identity often become victims to self depreciation, addictive behavior, even suicide. At the same time heterosexual youths are taught intolerance and rationalized violence.

Lifting the ban, or at least the uncompromising struggle to lift the ban, assures gay youths that a significant segment of the population is on their side, "gay is ok." Whether homosexual or heterosexual, youths suffer from bigotry as exemplified by the ban in the military.

Homosexual and large members of their heterosexual supporters are ready and eager to fight the ban. Outstanding service men and women have placed their careers on the line to join the battle. Suddenly, Barney raises the white flag and claims victory because the questions as to whether a person is homosexual will not be asked at the time of enlistment.

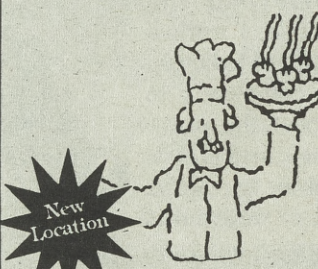

So what? If that person is discovered to be gay after enlistment he or she will be discharged immediately. In essence a homosexual who serves with the military will be in no better position than he or she was during the dinosaur era of the original bar.

The least homosexuals in concert with their supporters can do is to fight with all their might to lift the ban.

"Year of the Queer" Has Some Boycotting Parade

by Ken Locke

The organizers of the San Francisco Lesbian/Gay Freedom Day Parade have been under fire from moderate and conservative gays over this year's theme, "The Year of the Queer." Also rumors that the North American Man-Boy Love Association would be welcome to march, has some boycotting the event.

Recently, the San Francisco Sentinel conducted a call-in telephone poll that asked "Do you approve of the theme, 'Year of the Queer' for the San Francisco Gay Pride Parade?"

Of those who called in, 27 percent said "yes," they approved, and 73 percent said "no," they did not approve.

"Those were just the people who called in," said Michael Colbruno, editor of the Sentinel.

"It is really not representative of everyone."

Greg Taylor, co-chairman of the San Francisco Gay Pride Committee, responded to the controversy concerning the "Year of the Queer" theme and the participation of N.A.M.B.L.A.

"The same kind of controversy occurred in 1981, over changing from the commonly used 'homosexual,' to the words 'gay and lesbian,' which offended some people at the time," Taylor said. "Language continues to grow and change in our society, but some people don't go along with changes in language."

Taylor pointed out that people who opposed the parade theme could have presented their opinions to the committee in January, which was open to everyone, but they did not. The December general membership meeting decided on the "Year of the Queer," with more than 100 who approved the theme and only two who were opposed.

Responding to talk of a boycott, Taylor said, "The people who are talking about a boycott actually represent a very small percentage of gay people. This reaction has come from the more conservative groups such as the Gay Golden State Police Department."

The committee has gotten more

Frank Suggests Compromise

Leaders of the nation's gay rights organizations have denounced openly gay Rep. Barney Frank's suggestion of a compromise on the issue of gays in the military.

"It's the gay gag rule," Tanya Domi of the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force said of Frank's proposal that gay service members be allowed to acknowledge they are gay only when off-base and off duty. "You're gagged at work. Then you can take the gag off when you go home."

Rep. Gerry Studds (D-Mass.), who is openly gay, also issued statements objecting to Frank's proposed compromise.

Frank held a press conference

May 18 to clarify his proposed compromise. He called it a "don't ask, don't tell, don't listen (to would be informers) and don't investigate."

"Those who insist on no compromise at all are very likely to see a total enactment of... the ban," Rep. Frank explained.

But Rep. Gerry Studds, disagrees. "I think Barney is absolutely correct that at the moment we do not have the votes," Studds said, "But we are not voting at the moment."

Love, Hawaiian Style

Honolulu, HI -- Hawaii is a step closer to becoming the first state in the union to recognize marriages between same sex couples. A recent ruling by the State Supreme Court charged that the state must prove the ban on such marriages constitutional in order to let it stand.

"This is a major breakthrough," William Rubenstein, director of the ACLU's Lesbian and Gay Rights Project, told the New York Times. "This is the first court decision to give serious consideration to gay marriages." The court's 3-2 ruling on May 5 sends the case, brought to court in 1991 by two lesbian couples and one gay male couple, back to Circuit Court.

In the original lawsuit, the three couples charged that the ban on same sex marriages violated their rights of privacy and equal protection. But the Supreme Court invoked the state's Equal Rights Amendment, and ordered the government to prove a "compelling state interest" to maintain the ban.

Justices Yoshimi Hayashi and Walter Heen dissented with the majority, with Heen writing that because the ban effected men and women equally there was no gender discrimination.

But the majority opinion dismissed that argument, citing a 1987 U.S. Supreme Court ruling that lifted the ban on mixed-race marriages. Proponents of that ban had argued that such prohibitions were not racially discriminatory because blacks and whites were affected equally.

Hayashi and Heen also warned that the Court's ruling will have "far reaching and grave repercussions on the finances and policies of the governments and industry of this state and all other states in the country."

In this part of their opinion, Hayashi and Heen appear to have a point. Because each state recognizes marriages performed in another state, all couples who are married in Hawaii -- including lesbians and gay men, if the ban on their marriages is deemed unconstitutional -- would be considered married across the country.

To head off such a situation,

Hawaii Republican Party chair Jared Jossem has announced that he will call for a constitutional amendment to prevent same sex marriages in the state.

Navratilova Backs Gay Games

Tennis great Martina Navratilova has joined the Host Committee for Gay Games IV, to be held next year in New York City. "Among lesbian athletes, she's number one," said Jay Hill, Gay Games IV executive director. "She's a role model for young people all over the world, and her visibility with the Gay Games is another reason to look up to her."

Navratilova has already committed to host a fundraising event for the Gay Games and will lend her name to a direct-mail effort. "There may be other commitments, but it's too early to say right now."

Taylor said. "Overwhelmingly, I've gotten a great deal of support for this," he added.

"We're getting mired down in identity politics," said Taylor. "We should be focusing on fighting our enemies instead of fighting each other."

That is, in fact, what the parade committee is doing. On Monday, May 31, the committee released a 15-second TV public service announcement featuring testimony from North Carolina Republican and rabid gay rights foe Senator Jesse Helms, during the Senate confirmation hearings of Supervisor Roberta Achtenberg.

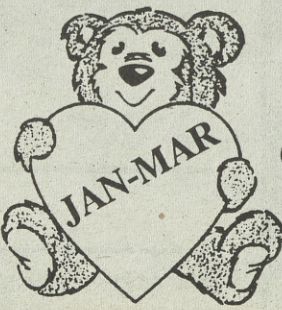

Pointing to Achtenberg's support for the "gay agenda," Helms referred to last year's parade as evidence of the alleged depravity of the gay and lesbian community. The tape shows Helms saying, "That gay pride parade -- I wish every American could have seen it." Following Helms' comment was an invitation from the committee for people to see the parade," said Taylor.

"That works to our benefit." The fanatical religious right has used footage of the past parades in their anti-gay propaganda films, the most recent of which is the "Gay Agenda," which a coalition of rightists distributed to members of Congress during the Senate hearings on the lifting of the ban on gays and lesbians in the military.

Taylor pointed to their repeated use of the group N.A.M.B.L.A.'s participation in past Gay Pride parades in the "Gay Agenda" as in their other films, to illustrate their claims that gays are perverted and a threat to children. The clips show the small group marching in the parade, as their slogan appears in big letters across the screen: "Sex before eight or it's too late."

"If we didn't allow N.A.M.B.L.A. to march," Taylor explained, "we would be in for a huge lawsuit. We all have our own opinions of N.A.M.B.L.A., but it's a legal issue. However, they haven't turned in an application, so it looks like they won't even be marching this year."

Just a Sample of Our Community's Organizations

by Stan Carlsen and Kate Moore

At the Lambda Freedom Fair each year, gays and lesbians gather in McKinley Park to celebrate our freedom and our pride. At the fair we see our diversity clearly and we feel our unity on the issues of gay rights and AIDS.

The June 19 Freedom Fair is a day to play, join clubs, sign letters, dance, hold hands and celebrate our freedom to be who we are.

To maintain the strength and power of our civil rights movement we must remain aware of our support system and use our resources to empower ourselves and our issues.

One of the greatest assests of Sacramento's lesbian and gay community is the Lambda Community Center. The staff and volunteers put on the yearly Freedom Fair.

This year's theme is -- Our Family of Pride.

ORGANIZATIONS

SACWN seeks to create a positive and pleasant environment for lesbians to meet and share in educational, social and recreational activities. Monthly programs provide an opportunity for networking and offer a nurturing and empowering environment for women to affirm their lifestyle while participating in the preservation and enjoyment of lesbian culture.

Membership is open to any women over the age of 21. Annual dues are $36. Reduced rates are available for "two in one household" and persons on a low or limited income.

In 1993, SACWN will meet on the third weekend of each month. Call for specific information.

The major events include the June 18, Family Pride Celebration Dance featuring Second Wind at YWCA and the Halloween Dance October 30.

SACWN has rented a campground near Nevada City for the weekend of July 23-25 for the "first annual" Sacramento Women's Gathering. The theme of the weekend will be "Sharing our Stories" Workshops, hiking, canoeing, and a fabulous pool at the base of a private 40 foot waterfall will be among many treats.

ENTERTAINMENT

Entertainment with a Flair Comes to Old Sacramento

by Stacy Selmants

In its opening month, Garbeau's Too! has successfully brought a class act to Old Sacramento, combining dinner theatre with a sometimes naughty late night cabaret show, receiving rave reviews for both the food and the entertainment.

Local theatre goers are already familiar with Garbeau's, a dinner theatre in the suburbs that has featured a consistent string of hits since 1981. Under the management of Shannon McCullough (formerly of Faces), the new venue offers mystery theatre in the early evening, followed by a rotating lineup of cabaret shows.

Cabaret Director Gayiel Von Geldern will be booking the shows, as well as performing on Thursdays. Her act, which includes a smattering of almost every type of music, from gospel to blues to torch songs, won a four star review from the Sacramento Bee.

The one type of "music" that is not allowed, according to Von Geldern, is lip synching. "Karaoke music has no place here!" she said. Von Geldern has a funny, breezy patter to accompany her songs, and pokes gentle fun at members of the audience, offering to sing "Feelings" or "New York, New York" for $150. Some of the songs she DOES sing, (with her three octave range) include Aretha Franklin's hit "You Make Me Feel Like A Natural Woman," "God Bless the Child," and a boogie woogie piano number where she growled, "You can have my husband, but leave my man alone!"

Gayiel Von Geldern.

Von Geldern has a long history in show business, including work with Michael Feinstein, Charles Pierce, Ben Vereen and Mel Torme, as well as booking acts for the Rose Tattoo in Los Angeles. She has booked acclaimed illusionist Jim Bailey for June 17-19, with a special gay pride show scheduled for June 20, where Von Geldern will also perform. Other nonconfirmed performers Garbeau's Too! is hoping to book include lesbian comic Lynn Lavner, Music Circus star Sam Harris and Jimmy James. A six week run of a revue written by William Hedge, "Aaah...Yes, it's Love" will begin on June 25.

Currently, Garbeau's Too! is open Thursday through Saturday, but is expected to be open other nights of the week when the full liquor license comes through. (Beer and wine are available now, with Watney's on tap.) The restaurant/cabaret, located in the former D.O. Mills restaurant at 111K Street, is a two story affair, and is plush and comfortable, without being gaudy. Prices for the cabaret show and/or mystery theatre range from $10 to $25, depending upon whether the guests order dinner. For more info. call 442-4570

"Out For Laughs" with Shan Carr

by Joyce Bezazian

An evening of entertainment was headlined at the Tuesday Club recently by San Francisco comic Shan Carr.

The event, followed by a dance, was sponsored by Carr's fellow former "Ms. Leather" title-holder "Jammin' Jo" Tierney.

The opening act, promising new comic "Sequita," was winner of the talent contest held at Tierney's most recent local event. The contrast in tone set by the two comics was interesting, as Sequita's sultry, mellow style differed vastly from that of Carr. Shan Carr hits the stage with a presence akin to a cartoon character on speed. Much of her "out" gay and lesbian-themed comedy is physical. She frequently had the audience roaring with her interactive style and rubber-faced expressions. Her animated illustration of various characters -- including herself -- is a strong point in her show.

Especially amusing was her piece on the March on Washington, where she states she must have been the last person to leave a deserted San Francisco that weekend: "If you needed a perm or floral arrangement that weekend -- forget it!"

Another highlight of the evening was a clip from Carr's new video with other bay area comics entitled "Out for laughs." The skit "Myths about How you become a Homosexual" takes us to a fantasy gay and lesbian recruitment camp (titled aptly, Camp Camp), where Carr as the drill sargent takes the men through voguing drills, and drills the women to alternately "Sit butch!! Sit fem!!" I was left driving home singing to myself the camp's marching chant of "Dykes are here with all the guys-learning to accessorize... Fags are here with all the dykes, training to fix motor bikes!.. Sound-off, One Two..."

Carr's show was a lot of fun with enough gaiety for all.

Midnight Madness: Gay Movies at the Tower Theater

by Chris Narloch

Get ready for an onslaught of gay and lesbian cinema in Northern California in 1993.

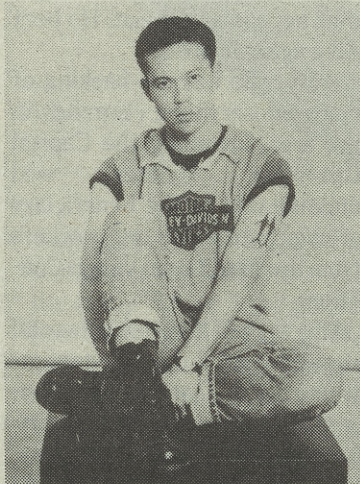

While Sacramento prepares for its 2nd annual Gay and Lesbian Film Festival at the Crest later this year, San Francisco kicks off the 17th annual International Lesbian and Gay Film Festival on June 18 (at the Castro Theatre and other Bay Area venues for a ten day run.)

Not to be outdone, the Tower Theatre is getting the ball rolling with a late night series of "queer cinema" -- it began in May and runs every weekend through August 7. From lesbian go-go dancers to gay punk rockers, there's something to shock and entertain almost everyone in this eclectic bunch of movies.

The Tower series began with a bang as leather men came to life in "Daddy and the Muscle Academy," a retrospective of homoerotic drawings by world famous gay artist Tom of Finland. Alternately thoughtful and raunchy, "Daddy" displayed just how deeply gay attitudes and fashion have been affected by Tom's leather fantasies.

"Female Misbehavior" was a rare, if uneven, look at four very different female "outlaws." Monika Treut's film offered portraits of women who fall well out of the realm of mainstream society, and who often feel as out of sync with the feminist and gay movements. A segment on a lesbian into S & M was joined by one on Annie Sprinkle, the porno performance artist (who let her breasts do much of the talking.) The obnoxious but fascinating

Alex Chee in SEX IS. . .

Camille Paglia, and a female-to-male transsexual rounded out the film.

"Together Alone" screens June 11 & 12. This award-winning feature was a hit at last year's gay film fest in San Francisco. Two young men enjoy a late night conversation after going home together for sex. Their topics include intimacy, relationships, trust, betrayal, and unsafe sex - in short, everything affecting gay men in the age of AIDS.

"Flaming Ears" runs the weekends of June 18, 19, and 25, 26. A low budget comic horror film from Austria, set in the year 2700, when lesbian go-go dancers, pyromaniacs and bouncers populate the universe. We follow "Spy", the last romantic alive, as she travels through a color-saturated dream world.

"Sex Is..." plays July 2, 3, and 9, 10. Dedicated to the "memory" of Jesse Helms (wishful thinking), this candid and funny documentary showcases the views of a wide range of gay men on the topic of sex. They speak about coming out, about their "first times" and about the good old days of unsafe sex in shocking, talking head interviews.

In one of the best segments, a gay man details his guilty pleasure when, as a teenager, he was given muscle magazines by his father in order to make a "man" out of him. Graphic scenes of gay sex are alternated with footage of the homophobic religious right. Jesse Helms may indeed have a coronary if he ever sees "Sex Is..."

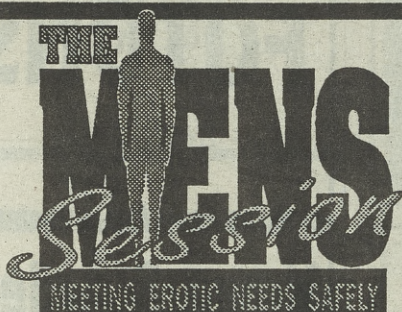

"Last Call at Maud's" will show July 16, 17, and 23, 24. A valentine to the oldest lesbian bar in the world, now defunct - Maud's in San Francisco. Interviews with those who were there, as well as rare visuals, take the viewer on a trip through California's lesbian bar scene from WW II to "last call" at Maud's.

"No Skin Off My Ass" will wrap up the Tower series July 30, 31 and August 6, 7. Inspired by the homocore fanzine J.D.'s, this continued on page 18 treated much like obtaining marriage documentation. Applicants will register with the City Clerk, and if approval is granted, they will be given a certificate quite similar to a marriage license.

The partners must satisfy eight conditions which include showing that they are both 18 years of age, residents of the City of Davis, and partners who share basic living expenses.

Although Garcia-Ayala is highly confident that this ordinance will be approved, she is concerned with informing the business and medical community. "We need to circulate the ordinance throughout the two other communities who are directly affected by the ordinance so they may have an opportunity to respond," commented Garcia-Ayala.

The Human Relations Commission has not received negative reactions to this proposal, thus leading them to believe it will pass. Moreover, the proposal has already passed through public hearings, commission consideration, and City Attorney review.

The final stage through which the ordinance must pass will be the Davis City Council. The Commission hopes to receive a response from the council in early July.

DISTRICT 5

contain the number of fundamentalist Republicans in the Assembly. Collins won that race handily, despite Alby's charges that he was an atheist. He beat Alby again in 1992.

Alby, who has the backing of many conservative churches in the area, including the Capitol Christian Center, will undoubtedly be the beneficiary of campaign funds and workers from the Traditional Values Coalition.

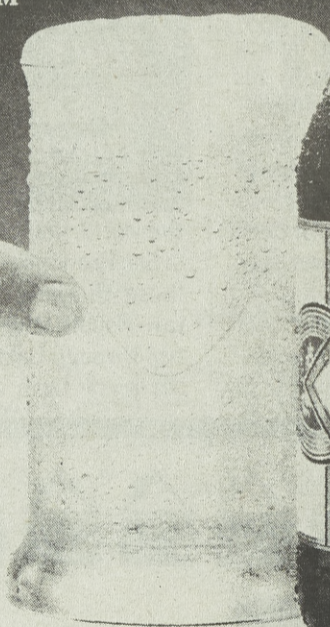

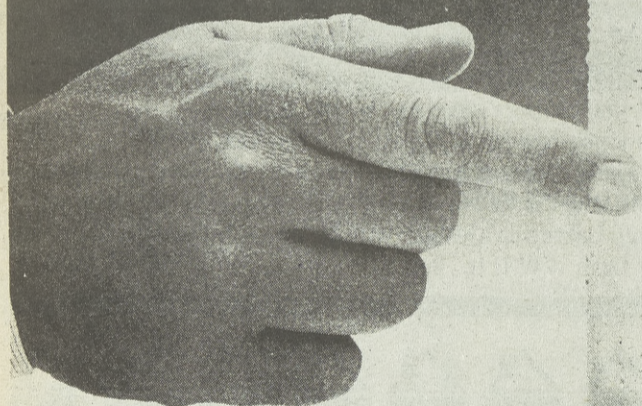

Alby argued that her vote total showed that she is not too extreme a candidate for the conservative district, "The voters have said that they prefer Barbara Alby to the other candidates that ran in this primary. I would stand on that statement."

Barry, executive director of Save Our Seniors, a nonprofit agency, feels her platform better represents the district. "We are a moderate community out here. We've already had indications from the Republican side that there is support for me. I think it is going to be a difficult race. But I think we can build a strong consensus and work with people from different philosophies. (Barry also lost to Collins, last November.)

The issue that may take prominence, in addition to Alby's vocal opposition to "Willie Brown tax-and-spend liberalism" is the school voucher initiative, which may appear on a ballot as early as November. Alby is for the voucher, which would give parents a $2,500 public stipend to be used for private school tuition, including church schools. Barry opposes the measure. And while Alby has played down her fundamentalist credentials in this race, if she wins, she is likely to carry anti-gay legislation.

Jackson Puts New "janet" CD on the Top of the Charts

by Bill Peterson

Nearly four years ago, Michael "King of Pop" Jackson's considerable commercial achievements were being outdone by little sister Janet's "Rhythm Nation" for a sum worthy of a mega-star.

Jackson has returned with "janet." With one huge hit in "That's The Way Love Goes" and several strong follow-ups, we can expect a year's worth of radio saturation and more record breaking statistics.

While a few songs could be trimmed down (the schizoid pop/rap of "New Agenda" and the trite "Funky Big Band"), for the most part, the grooves are so solid here that they carry any weak parts. "janet" has a bit of something for everyone - from the ravey "Throb," the guitar-pop of "What'll I Do" to the seduction suite that makes up most of the second half.

Lyricaly, expect variations on standard pop themes-painful break-up on "Again" - "I've come too close to happiness/ To have it swept away/ Don't Think

I Can Take The Pain/ No, Never Fall In Love Again," and passionate reconciliation in "The Body That Loves You" - "Come Here, I've Missed You So Much/ I Forgot How Good It Could Feel/ Oh, How My Heart Does Miss You."

"janet" stands as further proof that Miss Janet's success is not simply due to the family name but to a confident and able talent.

Dreamland - Aztec Camera

With an average of one album each third year, Roddy Frame's Aztec Camera presents a different sound with each album. Refining further on the smooth portions of 1990's "Stray," the newest edition, "Dreamland" ends up being as smooth and tasty as a Slimfast shake. Best summed up in a song title "Valium Summer," the eleven tunes blend into one soothing serenade.

Still, with co-producer Ryuich Sakamoto, Frame has created some memorable and intriguing melodies -- as on the opening "Birds" and the rhythmic "Spanish Horses." While the refined tone on "Dreamland" makes one long for the old days of "Oblivious," "Sing-along Cho-

LI: Hit me with your best shot?
DM: That's right. "You don't understand. I buried my partner of 12 years. You can't do anything to compare to that." And so, if they think we are going away, they are seriously miscalculating.

LI: What is your advice to this community in dealing with this administration?

DM: Patience. The patience of King and the patience of Ghandi. Whatever action we take, make sure we know what the desired result is. I believe in nonviolent civil disobedience, but we must know who we are targeting. We must time it so that it brings people to us and not from us. We are the long distance runner. We've been for 12 years in darkness. We know how to pace ourselves.

LI: In planning our responses, do you think we suffer from a leadership void? We have no Ghandi or King.

DM: I think that we have many Kings and many Ghandis. I think that one thing that AIDS had taught us is that leadership is a very fragile thing. We've lost a lot of leadership. When one falls, maybe three or four of us have to pick up that banner and move forward, maybe not as experienced as the one who fell, maybe not with all the wisdom of the person who fell, but put the three or four of us together and we will have the experience and the wisdom of the one. I think we are a community filled with Ghandis and Kings. I think we are blessed in that aspect.

LI: Your prediction for the future?

DM: A lot depends on how smoothly it goes in the next year or two. Not only do we need to get the executive order on the military, we need to pass a national civil rights bill. I think the next 4 or 5 years are going to be busy years for all of us. We only need to walk one line, our agenda, and our agenda is two simple things, a cure and freedom. No more. No less.

If you want to re-live the early Aztec Camera sound, "I've Seen

With sometimes mumbled lyrics and gentle harmony, the Sinatras' songs show varied influences from R.E.M. to the Beatles-esque string embellishment. ***

that GALLERY GUIDE!

Local Gallery Presents the Unpresentable

by D. Oldham

Lite Rail Gallery will be exhibiting the 1993 American West Coast Censorship Competition during the month of June 1993.

The Lite Rail Gallery invited artists from around the nation to submit work for this competition, and gallery director Michael Xepoleas has carefully selected an exhibition portraying the state of censorship in the 90's.

Many of the artist's statements reflect the growing problem of censorship in the arts, and the majority of these works have been removed from previous exhibits, placed alone in a back room, and even refused for exhibition by major universities. Perhaps the most surprising part of this show is the relative tame nature of these censored works.

The sculpture in this exhibition is somewhat disappointing, "David (Dying of AIDS)" by K. Ross is the best of the three dimensional works, and the somber sculpture quietly addresses the AIDS crises without the emotional push one would expect from such a harsh subject.

A cloth piece depicting an orgy features garishly dressed figures, and Michael Ballis' neon penis sculpture is campy at best. The two dimensional work steals the show.

The strongest work in this exhibit comes from Los Angeles artist Chris Hero. His mural-like paintings loom over the rest of the show and startle the viewer with their stark messages.

"C'section depicts the brutal slice of a hooded surgeon's knife into the abdomen of a contorted black woman while a blond man nonchalantly munches french fries in the corner of this immense (9'x 12'x 3') canvas. His work pulls at many emotions, stunning the viewer with cold images of social injustice, pushing the censorship issue by making people uncomfortable without being able to pinpoint the reason.

On the lighter side of the censorship issue is the photography of John Rand. He explores the lure of the "Bear" physique in the gay community, with images of large hairy men. He brings us

"Bill and Harry" a couple of 30 years. The black and white photo shows the two men nude in an embrace, proudly displaying their ample bellies and full beards. This is not an image found in most galleries.

Gay themed artwork has longed been censored from public exhibition, many times only to be displayed in back rooms or in gay owned galleries. It is refreshing to see Rand's work exploring the sub-cultures of the gay community.

A touch of humor is also evident, in Patricia Mcloon's linocut bearing the words "So I Don't Shave My Legs, So Fuck You, Jesus Didn't Shave His Legs Either," the artist displays the words next to a simple image of hairy legs. In her statement she reveals her catholic school background, the portrayal of boys being more important than girls and states, "Maybe a sense of humor will offer insight" and her stark print certainly does.

The exhibition is a mix of many styles, from the well rendered realism of Merrilyn Duzy's "Fantasy Lover" to the harsh depiction of an abortion clinic, this show becomes a celebration of censorship.

It leaves the viewer dizzy and confused, not sure why we aren't suppose to like this artwork but feeling drawn to it anyway.

The 1993 American West Coast Censorship Exhibit is on view at 2104 P Street through June 26, for further information contact Michael Xepoleas at (916) 441-1013.

RUMOR HAS IT

Judged by any measure, this year's CAPPAC dinner, held June 12 at the Radisson, was a big success. Not only did the event raise a considerable amount of money, but it proved to be a great source of gossip, as well.

Among the spectacularly clad ladies and gentlemen in attendance was Jo Tierney who arrived with the recently single Liz White. When discreetly asked about the liaison, Jo reported they were "only friends." In fact, Jo let it slip that she is seeing someone else. Although Jo's mystery woman remained nameless, she did mumble something about magic hands.

The amicably split Dan Palomino and Michael Sestak also attended the dinner together. The two let it be known that although they are no longer an item, they were celebrating what would be their eighth anniversary if they were still together. Go figure!

Alan Lofaso, elected Sacramento's Most Politically Correct Man in the latest ISSUE's 1992 Best of Sacramento Poll, was making the rounds, as well. When asked about his recent political activities, Alan responded that he had been too busy "desperately seeking a husband" to be politically active.

Of course, Laurie McBride (chosen in 1992 as Sacramento's Most Politically Correct Woman) was there. She spent the pre-dinner hour trotting Sacramentans over to meet David Mixner, the evening's keynote speaker. Coincidentally, McBride, executive director of LIFE Lobby, and Mixner, consultant in the Clinton campaign, were selected as Man and Woman of the Year by Christopher Street West, organizers of the Los Angeles gay pride festival.

Will Alan Lofaso and Laurie McBride retain their titles as Sacramento's Most Politically Correct in 1993? Stop by the latest ISSUE booth at the Lambda Fair on June 19 and vote for this category and many more. The results will be published in the July paper.

RUMOR

June 18, the night before the Lambda Fair, Sacramento Lesbians Creating Change (SLCC) and Sacramento Area Career Women's Network (SACWN) are jointly organizing a dance at the YWCA. The two groups hope this jointly sponsored event will be the first of many they produce together.

The latest ISSUE's anniversary party at Faces was a big hit. The sun was shining, the burgers were grilling, and the music was hot! So hot, in fact, that Bob Brawley of Big Hair was dancing not just for fun, but for tips.

And speaking of hot music, if you've been looking (and looking) for the new Jean and June Millington album, don't despair. Although the album release has been delayed, it is nearing completion and should be out soon.

Look for musician Teresa Trull in the San Francisco Gay Parade this month. No, she won't be performing; she'll be driving the truck for the Olivia float, accompanied by her 8 year-old son. Teresa will be appearing in Sacramento July 10, in a benefit performance for SAGA.

The Midtown Athletic Club was the site for another event benefitting SAGA, when the group's racquetball players met for a friendly competition on May 15. The winners in the four divisions were: Mike McIntosh, the team of Dave Bullet/Chris Borner, Cid Suntrader (with Jim Brooking a close second), and the Don Callison/David Jay team. The informal tournaments are open to anyone. Call 429-2492 for further info.

The "gossip board" posted at Faces during the latest ISSUE's anniversary party provided an interesting combination of esoteric ramblings and unprintable trash. What we did learn (and can print) is that Kim loves Tam, Michael loves Pete, Lawrence loves Jim, Cliff and Jeff made up (for an hour anyway), Eric has a great body, and Cara and Muriel met in the men's room 2 1/2 years ago.

The Lambda Center, always seeking innovative ways to raise funds has instituted a "Friends of the Center" discount card program. Those who purchase the cards will be eligible for special discounts from participating vendors. Stop by the Lambda Center booth at the Lambda Freedom Fair to participate in helping to support our center.

Sacramento's CARES clinic, celebrated its 4th anniversary May 21 with a program acknowl-

Your Kids Will be Glad Uncle What is it Came to Visit

by D. Oldham

"Uncle What-Is-It is Coming to Visit" is the latest book from Alyson Publications to deal openly with "rainbow" families.

The story revolves around young Tiffany and Igor's apprehension of their gay Uncle's visit. The book is bursting with colorful illustrations outlining the children's search to find out what "gay" really means.

The book was written and illustrated by Michael Willhoite, whose ability to reach children through his pictures is a talent far above that found in most "mainstream" children's books.

The tale of the brother and sister's search weaves in and out through gay stereotypes, leaving them scared and confused about their Uncle. We see drag queens and leather men as the pair asks neighborhood characters what "gay" means.

When the Uncle does arrive, all is well and the book goes on to honestly explain about gay men and lesbians. It is an easy approach to explaining the differences in relationships to children.

I had the pleasure of having the entire book read to me by my eight year old friend Kyle. He had no trouble with the reading level required for the book and the ample illustrations brought plenty of giggles as we turned the pages. He understood the story and its message and it helped him understand some of the stereotypes about the gay community.

After reading the book he eagerly asked me if he could get the book at the library and I had the unfortunate task of explaining why many of our libraries do not have these type of books.

Other books by the same publisher, "Heather Has Two libraries who have "lost" their copy due to "censorship" by groups who systematically check out the books and never return them, or simply remove them from the shelves so they are listed as lost.

"Uncle What-Is-It is Coming to Visit" is available at Lioness Bookstore on J Street. The cover price is $12.95. Lioness also carries the other rainbow family books published through Alyson Wonderland.

The Central Library Downtown was given this paper's review

The ample illustrations brought plenty of giggles as we turned the pages.

Mommies" and "Daddy's Room-mate" are not available through the Sacramento Library.

A Central Library spokesperson cited funding problems for the lack of "rainbow" children's books at the library.

Adrian Saks of Alyson Wonderland Publications said that libraries all over the country have been reporting a "mysterious disappearance" of the two books over the past year.

The publishing company has sent out over 500 free copies to copy of "Uncle" and it should be available in the children's section. This book is a perfect gift for a child who may not understand the word "gay" and is a must for any child dealing with a friend or relative who is coming out.

If you do not have any children in your life, I suggest that you make "Uncle What-Is-It" your new coffee table book- it will make even your toughest leather friend smile.

"Uncle What Is It is Coming to Visit" is illustrated and written by Michael Willhoite.

I know that the whole organization MUST be legitimate, because The Psychic Hotline is endorsed (endlessly, especially if you have cable,) by the gracious and charming 60's pop music has-been, Dionne Warwick. She insists that their on-call psychics can foresee your future and answer deep questions such as, "Where are my car keys?" and "Why is that ugly man in my bed?"

Of course, their prediction that I will be swept off my feet and move to New York to have Katie Couric's love child is making my USUALLY gracious and charming wife a little testy, but I say planning out your own future is a mark of real maturity. (Of course if I find out that Katie's not a real redhead, I'm outta there.)

Apparently, when some people call the Psychic Hotline, they are not willing to "Please hold; all our gracious, charming and all-knowing operators are busy." To serve that growing, pulsing psychic need, more freelance psychic operators are marketing their services.

One of them, a renegade astral chiropractor named Dr. Glavinovich, who says he is the reincarnation of Nostrodamas, called the classified ad department of the Bee last month, looking for clients. His predictions: 1. on May 22, World War III would break out (No, Clinton was just having a really serious Bad Hair Day); 2. On May 24, the stock market would collapse, a psychic? While perched at a strategic window table at the Rubicon, swilling fresh beer and indulging in the benign group game of guessing which of the pedestrians were wearing underwear, (a good psychic warmup exercise) we tested the psychic powers of the other patrons.

Staff cartoonist Zeitler was a complete washout when it came to supplying predictions, since his only prediction used the word "rectal" rather too prominently to run in a "family" newspaper.

The other nearby customers also proved to be abject failures, since they did not predict that we would continue to trip over their outstretched legs and spill beer on them during every trip to the bathroom. But others were more helpful, and we were able to scrape together enough predictions to finish this column:

"Where are my car keys?" and "Why is that ugly man in my bed?"

except in Japan (except for Denny's stock, the market seems stable); 3. On May 25, the lost continent of Atlantis was scheduled to rise (no, but Roberta Achtenberg got confirmed for a Cabinet slot); 4. from May 26 through June 4, animals would eat people (only the ones wearing barbecue sauce); and 5. the only safe haven will be Laguna Beach (as if we could afford the real estate prices!)

How difficult is it to become

OFF THE EDGE PROPHECIES

1. After a small stroke, Senator and homophobe Jesse Helms will come to his senses and will volunteer to be the Grand Marshal in the 1994 San Francisco Gay Pride Parade. It will also be revealed that he once was J. Edgar Hoover's prom date.

OFF THE EDGE

Lou Sheldon will talk to the Lord, who will suggest another career path. Sheldon will open a string of gay bathhouse/laundromats, called "Suds n' No Duds." Clothes checks will be mandatory.

3. After a small stroke, Dale Zeitler will abandon any future dreams of receiving a "golden handshake" retirement package from the county, and will quit to open HIS own establishment, the "Texas Chain Saw Manicure." He will go bankrupt, but will sell his story to ABC as a miniseries, starring Drew Barrymore.

4. After a small stroke, Governor Wilson will realize that he has no chance of winning, and will not run for re-election. He and his wife Gail, rumored to be the life of every cocktail party, will re-register as a members of the Green Party and will open a karioke/piano bar on the San Diego waterfront.

5. The cure for strokes will be found.

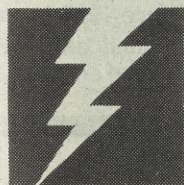

I'd love to share the rest of the prophesies with you, but first I really have to wash off this barbecue sauce and prepare for my big move to Laguna Beach.

Sure, we were afraid to take the HIV antibody test. But we also knew the time had come to find out. So we went in together, saw a counselor and took a simple blood test. And we supported each other while we waited for the news. A couple of us tested positive. So we went into action, checking out which resources and treatment options were right for us. There's hope today for people affected by HIV. It's actually a relief to know, either way. We're taking care of each other and we're taking care of ourselves, together. Make the choice to get tested.

Valentis is a place where taking care of your health doesn't mean you have to "look good."

Whether you're an Oprah Winfrey or Cindy Crawford, Santa Claus or Sylvester Stallone, or how about your average extraordinary human being? . . . Valentis is the place to handle your exercise commitment.

Speaking about commitment, is there really any reason you can't devote 3 or 4 hours each week to your health and fitness?

Listen, being alive is a good thing. Not just doing life, but really being ALIVE! Having energy! Feeling good! Being Healthy!

Take control of your well being! And let us provide the space for you to do that.

And if you already handle your health at Valentis, share it with someone else. After all, life is about sharing and being together.

Consider Your Life

Consider Your Health

Consider Valentis.
